MORE TAX FOR AUTOMOBILES?
THE BABY GAINS, LOSES
SOME THINGS SETTLED
JAPAN NEEDS AND TAKES
—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright 1932 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IT IS FORTUNATE for the United States, where new, amazingly beautiful, efficient and low-priced 1932 automobiles are now shown, that we did not get auto-prohibition, along with alcoholic prohibition. It would have been possible, at least on Sundays, in the Puritan days.

AUTOMOBILE owners now pay in taxes $1,000,000,000 a year, over and above the cost of their machines. The gasoline tax alone amounts to $500,000,000. This makes the proposed tax of 5 per cent on new automobiles sound particularly foolish. To discourage the automobile industry, already carrying the heaviest load in America, means to threaten the employment of more than two million men.

WALL STREET and stock speculators start out this morning cheered by the fact that in four days of last week the value of stocks went up $3,000,000,000.

The big telegraph and telephone company alone went up in value $180,000,000.

But what's the use of having the baby gain three ounces one day and lose five the next? That Wall Street baby is very uncertain. However, it is going to live, and be a big strong man and those that are selling their stocks close to "absolute zero" will feel foolish some day.

A FEW THINGS are settled. Germany has paid all the reparations she intends to pay. "Paris is perturbed" but will get used to the perturbation. France, England and others will announce that, since Germany won't pay them, they won't pay us. We may now charge off ten billions that Uncle Sam threw out of the window in a sloppy, sentimental mood.

MORE IMPORTANT are the thirty-five thousand million dollars that this country has sent to foreign countries in addition to the nation's ten billions.

How much of the thirty-five billions will come back?

Cyrus H. K. Curtis discovers that Germany owes the United States, in private loans, four thousand millions, about $35 dollars to every man, woman and child in the United States, just about the total amount of money now in circulation here.

What is our chance of getting all or any of that money, with the "Nazis," Communists and Nationalists fighting the German republic?

What is happening in Germany interests us more than anything in Manchuria.

That Asiatic treasure house need not agitate us or the state department. Japan is only doing in Manchuria what the United States did when it took Texas from Mexico. We decided that we wanted Texas and that we could make better use of it than the Mexicans.

JAPAN lacks room to expand, with seventy millions crowded in her little islands and Korea. There is plenty of room in Manchuria. Japan needs iron and coal. The learned Japanese, Jotaro Yamamoto.

BALLOT BOARD AIDS WILL FACE COURT TUESDAY

Calcutta, Sprucevale Men Named in Grand Jury Indictments

DUET POSTS BONDS FOR ARRAIGNMENT

Albert Fouk, Chas. Fraser Accused in Vote Count

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Named in secret indictments charging them with violation of Ohio election laws, Albert Fouk of Calcutta and Charles Fraser of Sprucevale, will be arraigned before Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court here at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Post Bonds of $500

Both men appeared before Clerk of Courts John Noble Saturday night, posting $500 for their appearance for arraignment. They were indicted by the January grand jury which ended investigations that resulted in 19 true bills last Friday.

Fouk and Fraser are accused of wrongfully counting votes cast in the November, 1931, election, in St. Clair township. The joint indictments were returned against them following investigations into the counting of ballots by the county election board.

A recount of votes cast in the township is reported to have disclosed discrepancies in tabulations made by the defendants.

Salem Men Named

Three Salem men, Anthony Dixon, James Cary and William Washington, are others scheduled for arraignment before Judge Lones tomorrow. Dixon faces a charge of stabbing with intent to kill while Cary and Washington were indicted on charges of burglary and larceny.

Otis W. Lewis, Wellsville, will be arraigned on a second degree murder charge in the death of Jack Evans.

Together with the 19 indictments returned by the grand jury, 10 cases were continued while three secret indictments were made.

HUSBAND, WIFE STRUCK BY AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Iler Injured in East State St., Accident

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Iler, 1049 East Third st., today are recovering from injuries sustained when they were struck by an automobile at the intersection of East State st. and North Lincoln ave., last week.

They were struck by a machine driven by Jack Ballantine, son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Frank Ballantine, 1439 East Third st. Iler sustained cuts about the face and injuries to his left leg. Mrs. Iler suffered hip injuries. Both were taken to their home after being given medical treatment by a physician.

The accident occurred, police said, when Ballantine ran into the man and woman as he was making a left turn onto East State st. Ballantine told Patrolman Edward Piller, who investigated, that he was blinded by headlights of another machine.

Slaying Thwarts Robbery 'Clean-Up'

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—A planned robbery "clean-up" of this city was foiled, police said today, by the slaying of Charles Ode, 22, and the arrest of three alleged accomplices.

Two suspects were captured last night. Ode was killed by policemen in a shoe store robbery 24 hours earlier. Theodore Meyer 22, surrendered then. All of the men were from Buffalo.

Detectives said the men told them they came here to "clean-up Cleveland."

'Fag' Law to Bring 5 Million Yearly

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 11.—The cost of administering the Ohio cigarette tax law during the first four months of operation was $9,239,722, Frank Miller, supervisor of the cigarette tax division of the tax commission reported today.

During the first four months—from September to December—the sale of cigarette stamps netted the state $1,607,629, which indicates Miller said, that the law would bring in about $5,000,000 a year.

Shoots Bandits

NEWARK, O., Jan. 11.—William Carter, 18, Negro, of North Liberty, N. W., was in a serious condition, and William Kemp, Newark grocer, was recovering today from pistol wounds received in a gun battle, when Carter and another Negro attempted to rob Kemp's store. The other man escaped.

"How's Your Operation, Old Pal?"

Companions in many wild adventures, "reel" and real, Tom Mix, noted motion picture cowboy and circus performer, and his no-less famous horse, "Tony," had a reunion recently. This was the first time the intelligent equine had the opportunity to hear first hand of his beloved master's operation. Mix was, for a time, in a critical condition in a Hollywood hospital. Photo was made in the grounds of the actor's home at Los Angeles.

ELIHU F. GIBBS, DEMING PLANT VETERAN, DIES

Spent 48 Years in Service of Salem Firm; Funeral Rites Thursday

Elihu Field Gibbs, 72, well known Salem man, employed at the Deming company for 48 years, died at his home, 666 North Ellsworth ave. at noon today.

Born in Salem

Gibbs was born in Salem and spent his entire life in this city. He learned his trade as machinist at the Thomas Sharp machine shop more than 50 years ago and had been employed at The Deming company since 1883.

His death today marked the passing of a second veteran employee of The Deming company. A brother, John H. Gibbs, 85, who died on Wednesday, Dec. 30, had been employed by the company for 37 consecutive years.

Surviving Gibbs are his widow, Elizabeth Mason Gibbs, one daughter, Myra, at home, and one son, Russell C. of Salem. One daughter, Jeannette Lewis, died four years ago.

Funeral Rites Thursday

Two sisters, Misses Kate and Mary Gibbs of Phoenixville, Pa., also survive.

Funeral service will be held at the home at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in charge of Rev. Sidney A. Mayer, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Friends may call at the home at any time.

County Sportsmen To Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association will be held in common pleas court room at 8 tonight for the purpose of electing officers for the current year.

The activity of this group of sportsmen aided in the creation of Guilford State park in Hanover township.

Between 300 and 350 acres are now under water at this site, ranging in depth from zero to 30 feet at the west end.

The state highway department has finished the widening and surfacing of the Lisbon-Guilford road, from the county home site to a point west of Guilford. It is said that this lake will be stocked with fish this season, and that as soon as additional land is acquired by the state that additional improvements will be made at the park.

State G.O.P. Meet Is Planned Jan. 21

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 11.—The Republican state central committee today was summoned to meet here January 21, by its chairman, Ed. D. Schor, of Cincinnati.

The committee, meeting for the first time in 18 months, will determine the time and meeting place of the state convention.

The ratio of delegates and alternates to the convention and other pertinent matters will be discussed, Schor said.

Early meeting of the state central committee was necessitated by the fact that the delegates and alternates must be determined before March 11, the final date for filing declarations of candidacies with the secretary of state.

HOOVER WORKS ON CHANGES IN CREDIT PLANS

President Seeks to Revise Both the Senate and House Bills

ECONOMIC AIDS AT WHITE HOUSE

Bills Have Objectionable Features, Undersecretary Says

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—A $55,000,000 fund for loans to farmers was added to the reconstruction finance corporation bill today by the senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—An effort to revise both the senate and house bills to create the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation was initiated today by President Hoover at a conference with financial experts.

Calls Economic Advisers

With the measure before both house and senate and passage in the latter branch imminent, the president called economic advisers to the White House. For more than an hour they discussed various phases of the program.

Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, said there were certain objectionable features in the bills before congress and an effort would be made to revise them. He declined to say what provisions in the measure were contrary to Mr. Hoover's ideas.

The other conferees were Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia; Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board; and Senator Walcott, Republican, Connecticut, author of the senate bill.

Speaker Phase Questioned

One proposition agitating the administration is the provision in the house bill giving the right to the speaker to name two members of the board of directors.

"This will be tossed out by the senate. Democrats and Republicans contend such a provision unconstitutional in encroaching upon the power of the president and fear it may violate the entire act."

The determination of President Hoover to get the new relief corporation into operation at the earliest possible moment lead him to consult congressional leaders.

Goes "Straight" for 17 Years, Man Facing Jail Again

(By Associated Press) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—The strange case of a man who escaped hanging 17 years ago and raised a family before being taken back to his cell has aroused the interest of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Plan Meetings

Two meetings will be held tonight to determine what action will be taken toward aiding Frank Pauletta, or Frank Ross, as he was known for 17 years.

Ross was arrested here last week in a coal mine, racing for three miles through the dark tunnels before falling from exhaustion. Taken back to jail in Clarksburg, W. Va., he was identified as Pauletta, who escaped in 1914, four days before he was to be hanged for killing a woman.

His escape from jail was even more dramatic than his race in the coal mine. He squeezed through a small sewer drain from which he had removed the grating in the jail floor. Picking his way to an outlet under the streets of the city, facing death any minute from a rush of water.

"We do not propose that the man go unpunished for his crime," said Henry Ellenbogen, attorney for the union.

Commutation Suggested

"It has been suggested that the American Civil Liberties Union apply for commutation or pardon for Ross, or Pauletta, inasmuch as he spent 17 years as a respectable and useful member of society, thus demonstrating that he can, in the future, as an asset and not a menace to society."

Ross has four children. His wife is expecting a fifth child.

Calls Lawyers To Discuss New Code

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Probate Judge Lodge Riddle today issued a call for a meeting of all attorneys in the county, to be held in common pleas court No. 2 at 1 p. m. Tuesday, at which time there will be a discussion of the new probate code.

Common Pleas Judge W. Frank Lones will suspend court in No. 1 court room during this meeting.

Judge Riddle has arranged to distribute among the members of the bar, or to each law firm, a complete set of all new blank forms required under the new probate law, more than 10,000 different blanks having been received by his office.

A large number of new forms are different from those formerly used, and, in addition, many new forms are now required.

Figures in Honolulu Lynching

Following the kidnaping and lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian who was out on bail awaiting a second trial for an alleged attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue (inset), wife of Major Fortescue, of New York and Washington, and mother of Mrs. Massie, is under arrest in Honolulu on a charge of murder. Arrested with Mrs. Fortescue were her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., husband of the alleged attack victim, and E. J. Lord, an enlisted man. Kahahawai is alleged to have attacked Mrs. Massie last November. Photo shows the accused lieutenant and his wife at the time of their marriage.

Firemen Answer 2 Alarms; Loss Small

Salem firemen responded to the first fire alarms of the year Sunday afternoon, extinguishing two blazes in the downtown business district.

The first call issued from the Colonial pool room, located in the old Colonial hotel, East State st. at 2:30. Paper in a waste basket on the second floor caught fire, causing slight damage to a room.

At 3:45 a blaze in the rear of the V. L. Ballin store, East State st. was extinguished. Papers stored in a yard burned, little damage resulting.

FAIR OFFICERS ARE SELECTED

Sept. 13, 14, 15 to be Exhibit Days; J. H. Sinclair President

LISBON, Jan. 11.—The board of directors of the Columbiana County Agricultural society met in the village hall Saturday afternoon and discussed preliminary plans for the 83rd annual county fair, which will be held here next September 13, 14 and 15.

Three Days, Nights

The 1932 fair will be for three days and nights only this season instead of four days and nights as has been the rule during the last two years.

Officers elected are: President, J. Howard Sinclair, Hanover township; vice president, Lawrence H. Copeland, Franklin township; secretary, H. E. Marsden, Lisbon, re-elected; treasurer, J. Ellsworth Rice, Wayne township, re-elected.

Select Department Manager

Managers of departments have been selected as follows:

Racing, George A. Rogers, Center township; show horses, J. N. Le Van, Fairfield township; cattle, Frank G. Bowman, Elkrun township; sheep and poultry, William Travis, Madison township; swine, Cecil Rauch, Center township; grain, seeds and vegetables, Lawrence H. Copeland, Franklin township; textile fabrics, domestic manufacturers and fine arts, G. Cecil Rauch; agricultural implements, machinery and automobiles, Van J. Morris, Elkrun township; educational department, H. C. Leonard, county superintendent of schools.

Racing at the fair will be carded for Sept. 14 and 15.

Blind of County Receive Warrants

LISBON, Jan. 11.—Warrants representing $3,850 were distributed today by County Auditor John H. Irwin among 92 men and women who are entitled to receive blind pensions from the county. This is the first quarterly payment of the current year.

A distribution of warrants on the mother's pension fund will be forwarded from the auditors' office next March. Warrants from each fund are issued quarterly during the year.

Prisoners Lose Supply of Liquor

(By Associated Press) ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Jan. 11.—The liquor supply for Belmont county prisoners has been shut off. Joe Banks was fined $50 today for furnishing liquor to the inmates. He said he made delivery through "trusties" at the jail.

MAN WHO 'FOUND' HER BODY TELLS STORY OF CRIME

Charles Bischoff, 45, Will Face First Degree Murder Charge

TELLS OF TAKING CHILD TO CELLAR

Shoemaker, After Early Denials, Breaks Down At Scene of Act

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Jan. 11.—The kidnaping and slaying of six-year-old Marian McLean was confessed today, County Prosecutor Robert N. Gorman announced, by Charles Bischoff, 45, a shoemaker. Marian's body was found Dec. 22, in the basement of Bischoff's tenement. Lured away from home Dec. 17, she had died of internal hemorrhages caused by criminal attacks.

"Discovered" Body in Cellar

Bischoff, who ran from his cellar crying "a child's body is in my cellar," told police then he did not know how it got there. For more than two weeks, he steadfastly denied all connection with the crime.

Saturday night, Gorman again questioning Bischoff, and continued until early this morning, when a signed statement was obtained. Gorman said he obtained three signed confessions from Bischoff yesterday, but that Bischoff repudiated all of them.

Shortly after midnight, Gorman said, he took Bischoff back to his cellar, and Bischoff broke down.

He gave a detailed account of his actions during the five days the child was missing, Gorman said. After telling of taking Marian to the cellar, Bischoff described the attack, which he said was committed at once.

Tells His Aunt

The next morning, Bischoff said he found the child dead. That was Friday. The body lay unnoticed until Wednesday. The cobbler told his aunt, and then ran out of the building shouting "a child's body is in my cellar." Arrested at once, he has been held in custody ever since.

A first degree murder indictment will be sought against Bischoff tomorrow, Gorman announced.

An indictment previously was returned against "John Doe" as the child's alleged slayer. Gorman said the earlier indictment would be dropped and a new indictment sought specifically naming Bischoff as the fiend who killed Marian after luring her from her home.

One of the greatest manhunts in this city's history followed discovery of the crime. Hundreds of fire-

Police Are Called To Maryland Pen

(By Associated Press) BALTIMORE, Jan. 11.—A police riot squad was rushed to the Maryland penitentiary today on appeal of Warden Patrick Brady, in anticipation of trouble.

Details of the expected trouble were not given but it was reported that Warden Brady had been "tipped" to an escape attempt planned during the lunch hour.

Officer Owes Life To Slippery Ice

POWHATAN, O., Jan. 11.—An attempt to assassinate Town Marshal Fred Carpenter failed last night when his assailant slipped on some ice and the bullet went wild.

The gunman, who had called Carpenter to the door of his home, escaped.

Hospital To Hold Meeting Tonight

The annual meeting of the Salem Hospital association will be held at the Nurses' home at 7:30 tonight. Receiving of yearly reports, election of three trustees and officers for 1932 will be features.

One Good Turn

PENANG, Jan. 10.—Since the big epochal gastronomic meeting of Democrats nobody knows what Al and Franklin D. Roosevelt have been saying to each other. But it's about like this:

"Listen Al, give me a chance. I been nominating you for years, now you do the nominating, and let me do the running, won't you? Come on Al, be a good fellow."

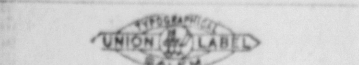

"Now Frank, just give me one more crack at 'em. Then if I don't do anything why you can have 'em. I had tough luck last time. Hoover was hot. But he has cooled down now and I believe it's my year. So just give the old boy one more crack at 'em, won't you Frank, that's a good fellow."

Yours,
Will Rogers

GERMANY'S ABILITY TO PAY

Twelve years, lacking but a day, from the date on which the Treaty of Versailles went into effect, Germany's stern chancellor, Heinrich Brüning, informs the British ambassador that his nation is ready to tell the world that its ability to pay reparations is exhausted. The world, which had been expecting to hear it, is startled nevertheless. In the tremendous confusion of post-war readjustment, Germany's confession is the proportions of a major landslide. The entire appearance of the war debt structure immediately is changed.

There are intelligent leaders of public opinion in the United States who have been convinced for a long time that the country's war loans to Europe would not be repaid. They have reasoned that Germany's default was inevitable. They, and other intelligent leaders, believed it was inevitable 12 years ago when Treaty of Versailles imposed on Germany the obligation to pay reparations. It has taken longer for the crash to come than most of them thought it would, however.

The United States has been lending Germany the money with which it paid reparations. Eventually, most of the money returned to the United States in the form of payments on the principal and interest of foreign loans made to France, England and Italy. Germany's economic structure grew lopsided with obligations which it could not pay. The drain on its financial substance was constant. No more muddled financial mess could be conceived in a disordered mind than the one in which the world now finds itself.

Three distinct and separate attempts have been made to enable Germany to pay the $33,000,000,000 established by the reparations commission as the total damage for which it was held responsible in the Treaty of Versailles. First, was the reparations commission. Second, was the Dawes plan, which became effective in 1924 after three years of operation under the reparations commission's plan. Third, was the Young plan, which went into effect in 1930. The doctors were not good enough for the patient, however. Germany, though given every advantage possible in its unfavorable circumstances, has failed to make the long pull, not officially as yet, but in the opinion of Chancellor Brüning and of tens of thousands of restless people who are following Adolf Hitler eagerly because he promises them release from payment of what they choose to call "tribute." As a result of the warning they have given, the United States is obliged to admit that the $11,000,000,000-odd of loans it extended so generously to Europe in an hour of trouble never looked less collectable.

AN OLD FAMILIAR PLAY

Babe Ruth knows what he's worth. The figure is $80,000. He doesn't care two whoops about the depression, vacant seats in the stands, the New York Yankees' financial condition, Colonel Ruppert's alibi or anything else. He probably reasons that the colonel can take care of that, and he's right. The colonel also can be depended on to take care of himself, including the danger from paying a baseball star $80,000 when he isn't worth that much.

An $80,000 salary in 1929 had increased 5 per cent in value by 1930, the first year of Babe Ruth's expired two-year contract. When he drew it during the baseball season of 1931 it had increased at least 5 percent more, in terms of buying power. In other words, the Babe's original contract was worth 10 percent more when it expired than when it was made.

Colonel Ruppert probably has all that figured out. Like an old familiar play, however, every year he and his portly boxoffice attraction must spar a few rounds before they call in the press, the cameras, the fountain pens and perhaps a microphone or two to record their decisions. It was all in fun, that Babe wants to stay with the Yankees and that Colonel Ruppert wants him to stay, too. When it's all over, Babe Ruth will be insured against trudging over the hill to the poorhouse and the colonel won't be accused of buying a pig in a poke. You can depend on that—but not $80,000 worth—not this year.

BRIDGE RETURNS TO THE AMATEURS

It couldn't have happened before and it probably won't happen again—a bridge match between two professional players and their hand-picked partners to establish the superiority of one of two rival bidding systems. In the bulky volume of Americana for the dull winter days of 1931-32 the Culbertson-Lenz contest, which staggered weakly to an anti-climatic conclusion last Friday night, deserves special space on Page One.

Something may have been proved. Apparently, it was the superior value of the Culbertson system. The argument will continue, however, in varying shades of intensity and leadership, according to the time and place. People who take their bridge seriously usually take themselves seriously, too. Fortunately, both for the good of the game and social relationships, they are a minority.

Bridge is at its best when played by amateurs for diversion. In the Culbertson-Lenz match it was a thousand miles removed from that status; the match was frankly commercial, a battle for prestige with mutual benefits from publicity. Bridge players who are more interested in the game and the entertainment it affords than they are in making a living from it are glad that it's over. As a matter of fact, they ceased to be interested as soon as it was disclosed that the players' interest in winning was too strong to allow them to observe common practices of courtesy.

What Others Say

FAKERS OF HISTORY

It suited the politics of Big Bill Thompson, whose rule as mayor left Chicago's reputation so low, to attack the king of England. To make the attack local, he charged that "propaganda for King George and England" was found in history texts used in the Chicago schools. Men were not wanting to serve his purpose. He attacked the superintendent of schools, William McAndrew, and John J. Gorman, former Illinois legislator, testified that there was such propaganda in the history of David S. Muzzey. Big Bill had his triumph. William McAndrew, best known educator and strongest character who had headed Chicago's schools for many years, was driven out.

Then Gorman was sued. He apologized. He took back the testimony, he admitted he had not even read the book against which he had testified. And now the state of Illinois bars him from practice of law. The Muzzey history is readmitted to the Chicago schools. But McAndrew is gone. No sufficient recompense can be made to him. No recompense can be made to the school children of Chicago who have lived under political domination of their schools.

And now it is Georgia which wants to rewrite history and by coincidence also attacks the Muzzey book. The familiar story that Georgia was settled first by a colony of convicts inspires anger. Georgians can not change the history texts. They can deceive their children, perhaps. They only suggest to other states that those early convict colonists, many of them poor prisoners for debt, were hardened criminals.

Wisconsin has not been free from such attempts. Legislators have

Mayors' Hail and Farewell

Ring out the old, ring in the new might be utilized as a theme song for the profession—or sport—of politics. Here is J. Hampton Moore, the newly elected Mayor of Philadelphia (left), shown as he received the congratulations and good wishes of his predecessor, Harry A. Mackay. Photo was made in the city council chambers following the inaugural ceremonies that inducted Hizonor into office.

Where Death Claimed Stunt Flier

This tangle of wreckage bears silent testimony to the terrific force with which the plane of Dale "Red" Jackson (inset), famous flier of St. Louis, struck the earth, causing his death at Miami, Fla. Jackson, who was co-holder of the world's refusing endurance record with Forrest O'Brien, by virtue of their long sojourn in the clouds over St. Louis, was stunting over the Miami Airport when the plane's wings were stripped off, resulting in the fatal plunge. In the right foreground is shown a white tarpaulin which covers the remains of the flier who dared death once too often.

Flat Feet Cured By Exercise

Did you know that the common complaint called "flat foot" is regarded as sufficient reason for keeping the applicant from the United States Military Academy at West Point? Many young men otherwise in perfect health have been unable to enter because of this defect. During the World War thousands of young men, anxious to serve their country and eager to reach the front line, were kept at home for inactive duty because they had flat feet.

A flat foot is one made defective by the weakening or actual breaking of the arches of the foot. There are two arches. One runs from the heel to the toe and the other runs across the base of the toes. These arches are supported by muscles. When the development of these muscles is poor, they relax and the arches are not held up as they should be.

Pain is caused by lack of proper support of a foot arch. This pain is severe. It is not always confined to the foot, but may be felt up the back of the leg.

Most cases of flat feet can be prevented if the tendency is recognized at an early age. The weakness usually exists in childhood. On this account you should have your children's feet examined to see whether they have good arches. If they show any sign of weakness, exercise and proper shoes will overcome the defect.

It is simple to determine a normal arch. Stand erect with feet firmly placed on the ground. The feet should be parallel with the heels and large toes touching. When the arches are normal there should be a concave space beneath the feet. This space varies in size, depending upon the height of the arch.

It should be possible to place a small, round object, as the end of a pencil, under the arch without touching the foot. This cannot be done with a flat foot.

Proper shoes are essential for everyone, and particularly for persons with flat feet. Tight shoes cause the muscles of the foot to become weak. The ideal shoe is broad in the toe, with ample room for the toes. The shoe should fit in the instep. The heel should be broad and low. The shoe should have a straight inner border and be of ample length. Shoes that are improperly fitted are detrimental to health.

To overcome flat feet, it is necessary to improve the circulation and tone of the feet. The muscles must be strengthened and the weak arch supported. I want to impress my readers with the fact that arch supporters alone cannot cure this condition. It is true that they support the weak arch, but they do not strengthen the muscles or improve the circulation of the foot. This can only be accomplished by proper exercises.

Many exercises are advised. They are all beneficial. If you have flat feet I suggest the following exercises: In the first one, walk with

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, carrying off a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

(Issue of Jan. 11, 1912.)

Mrs. Mary J. Koll, Salem's oldest resident, and probably the oldest in the county, observed her 102nd birthday anniversary Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elma Hayes, Garfield ave.

Remarkable increase in savings at banks and employment of almost 400 more men than two years ago show Salem is prosperous.

Officers and directors of the Citizens Ice company were re-elected Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the stockholders. The directors are W. W. Tolerton, H. A. Tolerton, E. W. Silver and W. D. Smith. Silver is president of the company and H. A. Tolerton is general manager.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Mardis of Clarksville, Ark., was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Dec. 27, when their daughter Lottie Mabel, was married to Dr. William P. Ruddell of Hackett City, Ark. The Mardis family formerly lived in Salem. Mr. Mardis at one time was superintendent of the Salem railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Tolerton left Wednesday morning on a trip to Los Angeles, Cal., to spend three or four months.

Miss Marie Manning returned to her home in Cleveland Wednesday morning. She was called here by the illness and death of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary C. Jones.

Martin Kaley, foreman for the Pennsylvania Railroad company, who has been off duty on account of illness, resumed his duties on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ambler Smith and Mrs. E. C. Votaw entertained a large number of guests Tuesday evening at Smith home, North Union ave.

County Sealer of Weights and Measures William R. Barr of Lisbon is in the city making his initial inspection of weights and measures used in local stores.

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

To chime or not to chime is the burning question in the NBC studios right now.

The tinkling tones, coming from a small three-note xylophone, are used to announce the time for the various stations to break in with local call letters. Their use has produced all sorts of comment.

The other night the chimes were missing temporarily. They were taken off unannounced, for a brief period just to learn the reaction.

Glee Clubs, Choirs to Sing

Glee clubs and choirs of seven women's colleges will sing for network listeners in a series of Monday afternoon recitals opening February 1.

The first college to be represented will be Wellesley. The programs will be carried by WABC-CBS in the afternoon.

Two birthday observations are being planned by the chains. The first on January 19 will be the 126th anniversary of Gen. Robert E. Lee on WABC-CBS. The next one, on January 25 by WJZ-NBC, will consist of a concert by an orchestra and a male chorus in honor of the 173rd anniversary of Robert Burns, Scot poet.

Record Fan Letter

Announcer John Mayo now boasts of holding the fan letter record as far as the size of a single communication is concerned. It contained 38 closely written pages and cost 28 cents to mail.

The radio schedule of the university of Kentucky via WHAS, Louisville, provides for a series of 20 talks on general education, daily farm programs and five musical presentations a week.

Yo-Ho-Ho And a Bottle of Scent

Attracted by a chorus of soprano and contralto voices singing the latest jazz songs from Broadway, puzzled Coast Guards boarded the "Maurice R. Shaw" off Red Hook flats, Brooklyn, N. Y., and found the craft full to the scuppers with liquor, which was later valued at $250,000. The strangest part of the case, however, was the capture of the typical hairy-chested "yo-ho-and-a-bottle-of-rum" type that exudes an aroma of tobacco-juice and whiskey, proved to be mostly ex-chorus boys frantically emanating the odors of rare perfumes. They are shown (top) being led into durance, where they will doubtless receive a slap on the wrist. Lower photo shows the capture of the crooners in the act of boarding the ship.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

Keep Up With Greens

What with the lousy food that the appetite demands in cold weather, there's a disposition to fill up on meats and fish and other proteins and disregard the important greens. We need the green vegetables quite as much in winter as in summer, but let there be no delusion about greens being exclusively spring-tons! On the contrary—the more we eat of the solid foods, the greater the need of the greens as roughage.

The blessings of modern refrigeration include providing us with fresh greens, in some measure, the year round. Several kinds of lettuce are available every month in the year, and this raw green should appear on the family menu for at least one meal per day—and where possible, two. Children can be taught to enjoy salad as such—instead of some youngsters seem able to eat the leaves sprinkled with olive oil and perhaps with a drop or two of lemon juice, with great relish.

A Delightful Salad

Raw celery and raw cabbage chopped finely are the basis for delightful salads. Mixed together they can be served with or without the bed of lettuce. Use only the leaves of a crisp, white head of cabbage. If the core is soft or white, the cabbage is likely to be tough and bitter. Cold slaw is a great favorite with many men, and it can be served instead of lettuce as the salad. (Incidentally, there is a growing tendency to serve salad at the beginning of the meal instead of after the meat. It insures the eating of greens, for one thing, also the tartness of the dish acts as an appetizer. Those who prefer an oyster to a fruit cocktail at the beginning of a meal will readily take to the salad first habit.)

Cole Slaw

- 1 small head white cabbage
  - 2 small green peppers
  - 1 cup chopped celery
  - 1 small onion
  - 3 tablespoons brown sugar
  - 1 teaspoon mustard seed
  - 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
  - 1/2 teaspoon mustard seed
  - 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar
- Mix together the vinegar and seasonings. Shred cabbage, finely, mince peppers, and add with celery to the dressing. Mix thoroughly and place in refrigerator to chill. Serve garnished with a few slices of fresh tomatoes, or strips of pimiento, or a few slices of stuffed olives.

An excellent green vegetable that has grown in popularity (since someone discovered its juice was just full of vitamins) is sauerkraut. It can be bought in bulk or in cans and should be cooked in boiling water for about half an hour before serving.

Dieting In Vegetables

"I'm on a diet—strictly vegetable," announced Terry proudly, as she scanned the tempting menu. She was very anxious to get rid of some extra poundage and as meat had been her favorite food, she decided that was the place to cut down.

But when her vegetable plate arrived it looked like anything but a meal for a dieter! Beets, potatoes, macaroni, cauliflower and string beans, a vegetable dish, true enough, but hardly the most advisable assortment in this case. Which accounts for the unsatisfactory results obtained by many who prescribe a diet for themselves.

Unless a careful study is made of food values, it is not advisable to go off on a blanket vegetable diet. Because vegetables may be more fattening than meat. Furthermore there seems to be a tendency among restaurants to go heavy on the starches in assembling a vegetable plate. The obvious reason is that there's more substance to the starch combinations. A plate of green vegetables would be filling temporarily, but leave one quite hungry soon after.

The Happy Medium

Somewhere there's a happy medium. And with the large variety of vegetables available in markets at this time, assembling a well-balanced vegetable dish should not be so difficult. For the needful protein, there might be beans—string, lima, lentils, etc. fresh, dried or canned. Melted cheese on toast, or peanut butter sandwiches, are another source of protein. One starch like potatoes, or rice, or spaghetti—not more. As spaghetti does contain some protein, it is frequently offered as a meat substitute, but there is also a large carbohydrate content which puts it into the starch class, too. Consequently, if there's spaghetti or macaroni, then potatoes and rice are superfluous.

Borderline vegetables like carrots, beets, turnips, parsnips, salsify, cauliflower, kohlrabi, are green vegetables with more substance than the leafy variety. But most people can easily stand two and even three leafy green vegetables on an assorted vegetable plate. They supply vitamins, have a tonic effect on the system, yet do not add poundage as the starchy vegetables. And if variety is sought in the vegetable dinner by one who adheres strictly to that diet, it may be supplied by fruits as well. Baked apples, baked bananas, large prunes, baked or boiled pineapple, plain or spiced, are only a few of the available fruits that can be blended well with a vegetable dinner.

Consult a Dietitian

In any case, however, if a vegetable diet is a drastic departure from one's regular habits, it should not be undertaken without the counsel of a competent physician and a dietitian. Sheer sacrifice in giving up certain foods does not always cure. Of course, excess in certain items—like eating meat two or three times a day, or having two or three starches at every meal because of a craving, may indicate an abnormality which needs checking. But not by self-doctoring. Dieting is as important as its effect on the system as medication and may have mischievous effects if it's done without counsel.

to, estimates the iron in Manchuria at 1,500,000 tons and of the coal near the iron at 1,000,000,000 tons. Who wouldn't take that? Does anybody imagine that mild remonstrances from Washington could change Japan's plan?

SENATOR BINGHAM, Republican, from Connecticut, says the government should legalize four per cent beer and create a $1,000,000,000 industry that would put $400,000,000 into the treasury, and help the farmers and the idle.

When Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, recommended an English brewer to the Virginia legislature, he did it on the round that beer was a temperance drink and would drive out the whisky that was killing so many Americans.

It did drive out whisky largely, and might have driven it out completely if competing American and British brewery owners had not put a saloon on every corner, and often in the middle of the block, so that that could not pay expenses on beer alone. They had to have back rooms, side doors and sell plenty of whisky. Therefore they had to go.

ON SATURDAY, thanks to a broadcasting plan arranged by Mr. Aylesworth with the Metropolitan Opera company, everybody in America was able to hear Wagner's "Lohengrin," sung by an excellent cast. One hundred millions would be about Wagner's idea of the audience he ought to have, and the broadcast news must have pleased him, if Wotan, with whom he presumably dwells, told him about it.

More important is the pleasure that millions of young people derived from the wedding march so important in the life of every normal girl.

H. L. MENCKEN, saying, "I never speak of or to teetotalers," goes abroad for his health, requesting photographers to write on their pictures, "This man is sick, not drunk."

Mr. Mencken, leaving, said the prohibition amendment will not be repealed in this or the next generation because Americans prefer to ignore amendments rather than repeal them.

Barry Will War On Cleveland Gangs

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Two gangs of hoodlums ranging in age from 14 to 22, were ordered cleaned up by Safety Director Edwin D. Barry today, in belief they are responsible for more than a dozen assaults upon women and girls.

Miss Josephine Lokar, who fought off two youths last night, asserted more than a dozen girls have been attacked in her neighborhood, recently "and no one has ever dared to report it to police before."

She said residents of the neighborhood were terrorized and feared to report numerous cases of assault, purse-snatching, slugging, robbery and even arson.

"I wouldn't dare identify anyone who attacked me," she said.

Three other women were beaten and attacked by robbers last night.

To insure the presence of at least one favorable critic in the audience, Clark Gable, he-man lover of the screen, over whom thousands of feminine hearts are knocking in double time, is shown with Mrs. Gable as they entered a Hollywood theatre where Clark's latest picture was having its premiere. Gable is regarded by critics as being the logical successor to the late Rudolph Valentino, but he has a different technique.

COBBLER ADMITS MURDER OF GIRL

men and policemen joined in a manhunt for the kidnaper who had caused Marian's death.

Several men were arrested as possible suspects. Bischoff among them.

Father Looking For Work

At the time of the slaying, the child's father, Joseph McLean, was in Phoenix, Ariz., looking for work. He and Mrs. McLean, who lived in Cincinnati, had been separated 18 months. He returned home by airplane for reconciliation with his wife, and for Marian's funeral. Free transportation was given him by an Airplane Transport company.

Firemen and police found the little girl's body on the dark dingy cellar floor in front of a coal bin.

The discovery, however, added nothing tangible to the search for her killer.

Bischoff was questioned intermittently by several score investigators. Until yesterday, he steadfastly maintained he knew nothing of the child's kidnapping or how her body came into his cellar, but police believed that the inaccessibility of the cellar precluded the possibility of anyone not familiar with it gaining access. With this in mind, they continued their questioning.

Child Had Been Ill

The day Marian disappeared was the first time her mother, Mrs. Mildred McLean, had allowed her outside the house in several months, for the child had been ill fourteen weeks. It probably was less than an hour after she left home that she was lured away.

The unemotional and ungratifying statement "I done it and it's done," was the way Bischoff summed up his confession.

"I am sorry it happened," he said.

"I didn't have any idea of killing her. It's done now and I can't help it."

Bischoff said he met Marian on a street and that she walked with him.

"She got kind of funny and didn't want to go down in the cellar with me but I made her.

"I don't know just how it happened, but when I saw she was dying I went away from there."

Sitting calmly on his cell bed, Bischoff related how he read in newspapers that firemen were to search every house in the girl's neighborhood, and of the plan he developed to save himself.

"I decided to take her body and put it there in front of the cellar. Then I was going to make believe that I found it."

Tells Jumpy Story

He seemed self-possessed, but he told a jumpy story, the facts containing no semblance of continuity.

"The little victim," he continued, "said nothing all the time."

"MARY FAITH"

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER XXXIX

"What can be wrong?" Mary Faith asked herself a hundred times a day. "What have I done, or left undone?"

And she knew that it was nothing she had done or had not done or had done that was responsible for Kim's behavior. She knew that he was bored and out of love with her once more, just as he had been before. Well, he had always come back to her, hadn't he?

"What's the matter with him?" He acts as if this place was a boarding house," his mother remarked frequently. "I declare, he runs around almost as much now as he did before he was married."

And so things went until the fifteenth of March. Mary Faith was always to remember that day because of the three things that happened on it. The baby made a whole sentence that day. "I see birdie," Mrs. Farrell announced that she was going to be married to Dr. Thatcher the next morning. And Kim broke the news that he intended to leave his wife.

The day started out beautifully, with sunshine and blue sky and everything going on in the flat just as usual.

A little after ten Mrs. Farrell started on her weekly search for bargains. She did this every Friday and returned at nightfall, loaded with toys for the baby, dish-towels that left lint all over the dishes, mayonnaise mixers that refused to work.

"Say 'bye-bye' to Nana," she said, kissing little Kim good-bye. She never spoke of herself as "Grandmother."

"Bye," said the baby, and went on playing with his string of spoons.

"Now, isn't it wonderful—the way he says that, Mary Faith! Kimberly walked and talked long before he was two years old, and this baby is as smart as he was!" She never gave Mary Faith any credit for producing a beautiful and precocious child.

"Hold him up to the window, Mary Faith, so he can wave good-bye to his Nana," she said, opening the front door.

But the baby had no eyes for her departing figure when Mary Faith held him up to the window. He went into raptures over two sparrows on the sidewalk, and it was then that he spoke the sentence that Mary Faith interpreted as "I see birdie."

She tried to make him say it again, but he struggled to get out of her arms and back to his beloved spoons. But Mary Faith was positive, nevertheless, that he had said those three little words. Late that afternoon, when the flat was in order and dinner was under way, she sat down to make an entry to that effect in his silk-covered baby book. She began to write: "This morning the baby put three words together to make a sentence—" She had reached that point when she heard the sound of Kim's car, and she fung down her pen and started up from her chair.

Long afterward she was to open the book and find that unfinished entry, trailing a long streak of ink after it, like a dark cloud; and the very sight of it was to bring back the vivid and aching memory of this March afternoon—the yellow glow of the sun in the room, the smell of the geraniums on the window sills, the sound of the vestibule door slamming, and Kim's footsteps on the stairs outside.

It was only five o'clock. Kim hadn't come home as early as in this months! Mary Faith was glad that she had just changed into a clean house dress of horizon-blue cotton crepe—the color that "set-off" her blue eyes. The hope that had warmed her heart for months flared up once again as Kim stepped into the room. The hope that on one of these nights he would come home and be his old self—the companionable contented Kim of last spring and of last summer, instead of the sulky and remote man who had come and gone like a paying guest all these past ten weeks.

He came in, and as she looked at his face her hopes died. It was hard and cold as if the regular beauty of it had been chiseled out of stone. "Hello, Kim," she said.

"What's the matter with him," Kim's mother remarked frequently.

"Hello," he did not look at her or at the baby, who was trying to reach the geranium blossoms on the window sill.

Then she heard him go down the hall to his own room and close the door.

A moment later he came back. "Where's my mother?"

Mary Faith smiled. "This is her bargain day. She's still downtown."

Mrs. Farrell's passion for bargains had always been the source of much good-natured joking in the family. But now Kim saw no humor in Mary Faith's report of his mother's shopping.

His face was as hard as flint as he sat down by the sitting room fire and bit the end from a cigar.

"I'm glad she's not here—I want to talk to you," he said, and something in his tone made Mary Faith feel shaky and sick. That was the way he talked when he came to Mrs. Puckett's house to tell her that he did not want to marry her, it was the way he had come home one night, almost two years ago, to tell her that he was going to leave her. What was he going to tell her now? she wondered.

"What is it you want to tell me, Kim?" Mary Faith heard herself ask steadily. But her lower lip quivered as she drew back her breath and one hand grasped the edge of the mantel shelf, as if she were bracing herself. Before he spoke a word, she knew what he was going to say.

"I won't go on like this any longer," was what he did say, after a pause that seemed like eternity itself to her. "This business of living like two strangers under the same roof may be all right for you, but I expect something more than that from life."

If they had been living like two strangers for the last three months, it was his fault, not hers. She tried to say so, but her throat seemed to have knotted itself all at once so that she was unable to speak a word. She stood staring at Kim and slowly shaking her head.

He went on:

"When two people reach the point where they realize that they've lost interest in each other, the only decent and moral thing for them to do is to part company. Lots of people do it. There's no disgrace in a divorce any more, and not much difficulty. You can stay right on here with my mother and the baby, and I'll send you your housekeeping money every week."

Evidently he had been making his plans for a long time, for he seemed to have all the details worked out. "You've heard me speak of Morris Gill—fraternity brother of mine? Well, he has a law-office across the hall from our office downtown. You'd better go down to see him in a few days and he'll fix everything up for you. Alimony and so on, I mean. I've told him I'm perfectly willing to turn over to you half of what I make."

Kim stopped then and looked at Mary Faith, clearly waiting for her to make some sort of answer. But she simply stood looking at him, silent and perplexed, with a look of pain in her deep eyes.

How could he come to her like this and casually tell her that he was through with her, tired of their marriage? How could he suggest that all he had to do was to pay her off, month by month, as if she were a pensioner, and that would settle whatever debt he owed her and the baby? He was cruel and different. She realized that, but it did not alter her love a bit, or lessen it.

"Jack and Claire, Maldon, have split up, and all she's taking is a third of Jack's salary," she heard him say. "She says she doesn't intend to make him pay through the nose all his life for the mistake they made in getting married. You don't expect more than half of my salary do you?"

In Death Plunge Mystery

Although a coroner's jury decided that Claude A. Moore, 37-year-old student diplomat and graduate of West Point, plunged to his death from the window of a Washington, D. "honor" slaying of an Hawaiian, Joseph Kahahawai, charged with assaulting the wife of a naval lieutenant.

Face Murder Charges

Those under arrest charged with first degree murder, are: Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., whose wife was assaulted.

Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother-in-law of Massie, E. J. Lord, and Albert O. Jones, navy enlisted men.

Griffith Wright, a criminal prosecutor, announced the death penalty will be demanded for all four. Attorneys said all four defendants would face the civil courts.

Festivities of the city criticized from their pulpits the action of naval authorities in assuming the safekeeping of Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Massie and Lord who were caught, police said, with Kahahawai's body in an automobile after a ten mile chase.

Pratt Is Criticized

Rear Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations in Washington, were also criticized for statements interpreted as "an endorsement of lynch procedure." He had been quoted as saying navy men would not stand for violation of their women and "for this crime they have taken the matter in their own hands repeatedly when they have felt the law had failed to do justice."

In recognition of "pressing needs," Gov. Lawrence M. Judd called a meeting of special committee, of the territorial legislature today to consider reorganization of territorial police laws. Meanwhile, the army held troops in readiness to rush aid to other policing agencies.

Police escorted the body of Kahahawai to a small cemetery late yesterday for burial, though the crowd were so dense they were forced to open a pathway to his grave.

Hundreds View Body

Earlier the Hawaiian's body had lain in a flower banked funeral parlor while hundreds of persons filed past the bier—the four men charged with him in the assault upon Mrs. Massie, were taken under guard from jail to the funeral parlor. All wept openly over the body of their friend.

From the chapel to the grave the body was accompanied by more than 100 automobiles, while thousands lined the streets in what was described the largest Hawaiian funeral in years.

Despite the tension authorities said there was no indication the trouble would resolve into a racial feud.

However, dance halls were closed and navy and army enlisted men were barred from the city, for fear liberty would lead to strife and bloodshed.

Operating on Himself

This remarkable photo, one of the most unusual ever to be made in an operating room, shows Dr. Evan O'Neil Kane, 70-year-old surgeon, of Kane, Pa., actually performing an operation on himself for inguinal hernia. Using a local anesthetic, Dr. Kane successfully concluded the delicate operation though he was compelled to rely on his sense of touch alone. The surgeon astounded the medical world in 1921 by removing his own appendix, but this latest operation is said to have been far more difficult. Brother surgeons at the Kane Summit Hospital pronounced the operation a success.

CALLS BUCYRUS POLICE CORRUPT

Investigator Quits Job As Storm Brews, then Says He'll Return

(By Associated Press)

BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 11.—Grand jury investigation of the Bucyrus police department was planned today as a vice crusade, cause of bitter controversy, awaited the return of its guiding spirit.

Wants Graft Probe

Chief of Police Philip Trautman today declared he would ask the grand jury meeting Wednesday to investigate "graft" in the police department, seeking reformation of charges of Benjamin J. Licciardi, private investigator, that the Bucyrus force merits description as "the most corrupt I've ever seen."

While Licciardi, who caused the arrest of 24 persons, including several women, last week, announced at Toledo, he would return despite alleged threats of violence against him. "I'll be back Monday or Tuesday," he said.

The storm had become so serious, however, that four Bucyrus citizens conferred Saturday with Governor White.

"They seemed very disturbed," the governor said. "I told them I would do what I could if the situation became serious, but that I thought the local authorities were capable of handling things."

"House-Cleaner" Quits

Licciardi was employed by business and professional men to give Bucyrus a "thorough-going house-cleaning," but so much enmity stirred up that he withdrew Friday, saying he could not depend upon Bucyrus police for protection.

Handbills captioned "Licciardi" were circulated here, referring to the object of their attack as "a deposed federal officer, an ex-convict mixed up in the Gerald Buckley killing and wanted in Michigan for murder." None of the charges applied to him, the raider said.

Mahatma's Wife, 2 Other Women, Jailed

(By Associated Press)

SURAT, INDIA, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Kasturba Gandhi, 60-year-old wife of Mahatma Gandhi, was arrested today, with two other prominent Indian women leaders, within a week after her husband entered Yeroda jail in the government's first move against the renewal of the civil disobedience campaign.

All three were charged with inciting India's women to raise the standard of non-violent revolt against Great Britain.

Like her husband, Mrs. Gandhi took the arrest serenely. Although she was engaged in active Nationalist work last year when the Mahatma fell into the British toils, she was not arrested then and today's action was taken to mean that government measures this year will surpass those of last year in sternness and thoroughness.

Twenty-eight persons were injured at Karachi yesterday when police charged a public meeting. At Srinagar 12,000 persons attacked the police station and liberated three prisoners, held for attempted arson.

East Liverpool High Gains 24-23 Victory Over Salem Cagers

THE DAY IN SPORTS

CARDS WILL MISS GRIMES LIVES PLENTY OF WORK

Even though they will boast one of the strongest pitching staffs in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals appear likely to feel the absence of Burleigh Grimes of Minerva during the 1932 season. Grimes is a veteran, who has seen his best days, and the Cardinals believe they got the best of the trade when they sent the old pitcher to the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Mack Wilson and Bud Teichert, a rookie pitcher.

Perhaps they did, but Rogers Hornsby, Cubs manager, Grimes himself, and Catcher Jimmy Wilson, Grimes' battery mate at St. Louis, disagree. Hornsby counts on Grimes to make the difference between a pennant winner and a contender at Chicago.

Jimmy Wilson says that Grimes will be a real loss to the Cardinals. "Not only because of the number of games he would win," explains Wilson, "but because he has the winning temperament. Burleigh fights for every game, and even when he isn't pitching, his presence on the bench inspires the rest of the team. They talk about Grimes being a hard man to get along with, but that wasn't true at St. Louis. True, he criticizes bad play, but he is sincere and is the first to admit his own faults. He is a real asset to any team."

THE BIG SPITBALLER, a horse for work, won 17 and lost 9 games for St. Louis in 1931—and complained constantly because he didn't have enough work. In Chicago he will have a chance to pitch every fourth day and going in to save an occasional game, and expects to have a big season.

Grimes, well known in the Salem district, commented on his trade to Chicago recently as follows: "There is an angle to the trade that many fans won't give thought to. What I mean is the job that I always look at the number of games a pitcher wins over the 500 mark. I won 17 and lost nine last year, giving me eight above the line. I pitched 17 complete games, more than any other St. Louis pitcher. Those victories now will have to come from other members of the St. Louis staff.

"Experienced pitchers can't be discounted. Haines and I won 29 games between us, and we are veterans."

"I will give Chicago my best and will work as hard to beat the Cards as I did to beat the Giants. I am going to like Chicago, where it is cool at night, and Hornsby and I will get along together."

ENGLAND FAILS IN SEARCH FOR FIGHT CHAMPION

(By International News Service) LONDON, Jan. 6.—British hopes in the heavyweight fight line suffered a severe setback when twenty-six young giants recruited from all parts of the country, met, fought and failed to produce a potential Dempsey, Tunney, or even a Dempsey from among them. But 6,000 spectators at the famed Crystal Palace, on the outskirts of London, were provided with more uproarious enjoyment than is given in a year at most vaudeville houses. As a clowning act the series was voted superb.

THRILLING RALLY IN 4TH QUARTER TRIMS QUAKERS

Reserves, Girls', Boys' Teams All Bow In Defeat Saturday

POOR FOUL SHOOTING DEFEATS STONEMEN

Red and Black Sextet out-classed; Bows In One-sided Game, 31-13

A thrilling rally in the final minutes of one of the outstanding cage battles ever witnessed in East Liverpool gained the Pottery City High varsity a 24-23 victory over Salem High's cage combine Saturday night.

Lose In Final Period
Leading almost to the very end, the Quakers collapsed before an overwhelming and desperate offensive drive of the Pottery in closing minutes of the fourth period and were nose-d out, suffering their fourth consecutive defeat. It was the first time in seven years that an East Liverpool basketball varsity had conquered Salem High.

Ceramic City teams enjoyed a real "victory night" at the expense of Salem teams, winning each of three contests played during the evening. Liverpool's varsity girls' squad outclassed Salem ladies to gain a 31-13 verdict while Salem reserves bowed to the Pottery cubs, 22-20, in another thriller.

Miss Foul Shots
Inability to score from the foul line again proved disastrous for the Pottery in the varsity fracas. The invaders outscored Liverpool on field goals, 9-8, but fell short in points via the gift stripe, tallying only five out of 16 offerings.

The game was a rough and tumble affair, 14 fouls being called on Salem players and 13 against Liverpool cagers. Norman Early, Salem center, and Clouse, Pottery guard, were both disqualified on fouls in the second quarter.

Girls Outclassed
Coach Esther Petersen's maidens didn't have a chance with the veteran Ceramic City crew in the girls' game. They tallied only one point in the first two periods and were outclassed all the way.

PAOLINI MEETS KING LEVINSKY IN MIX FRIDAY

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran, principals in one of the big upsets of the indoor boxing season, will fight again this week—but not each other.

Levinsky, whose heavyweight stock rose several points when he handed Loughran a terrific beating here a few weeks ago, faces Paulino Uzcudun in the ten round feature of the Chicago stadium's Friday night card. On the same night here, Loughran hoping to get started again, boxes the dangerous youngster, Steve Hamas, for ten rounds.

Supporting the Levinsky-Paulino match will be four more bouts in the National Boxing association's light heavyweight elimination tournament.

At Boston Friday night, Ernie Schaaf and Jack Doran, rival Boston heavyweights, are to box 12 rounds for the New England title.

Winding Up for Olympic Trials

The tide of Olympic hopefuls has already begun to flow toward Los Angeles and one of the first to start winding up for the big test is George Simpson, sprint star from Ohio State University, co-holder of the world's 220-yard record, who will compete in the Olympic try-outs under the colors of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. In addition to his 220 yard record, Simpson is credited with a mark of 9.2-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash, though that record is not official owing to the use of starting blocks. He is shown during his first workout in the Los Angeles Stadium.

SEBRING TAKES OVERTIME TILT

Youngstown Chaney Five Drops Thriller In Extra Session

SEBRING, Jan. 11.—Youngstown Chaney dropped a thrilling overtime game to Sebring High here Saturday, making the second decision in as many nights that Chaney lost by one point.

It was a superb battle with Sebring leading 19-8 at the half. The battle was deadlocked at 18-18 when the final gun sounded. In the overtime Erb and Hall popped in field goals but the brilliant Tony Sergi threatened to make it a tighter affair but the extra session ended as he scored a field goal and a foul.

Sergi scored 13 points while Erb, Reedy and Hall were Sebring headliners.

Sebring reserves beat Chaney's subs 12-11 in the prelim.

WARREN RALLIES TO TRIM SOUTH

Youngstown Team Puts Up Strong Battle Against Vets, But Loses

WARREN, Jan. 11.—Spectacular work in the last five minutes of play enabled Warren High to defeat South High of Youngstown by a 23-22 score Saturday.

South playing its second game of the season, displayed an offense that swept the Warrenites off their feet. Leading by a score of 21-14 with only five minutes left to play it appeared that victory was certain for South until the Warren boys led by Dowdell, Steele and Mayberry staged a scoring spree that placed the locals in front.

Dowdell started the fireworks by tossing in a foul. Steele caged two baskets and a foul to tie the score at 29-29. This deadlock was broken a few seconds later by Dowdell and Mayberry with three long shots in rapid order. Rowney added the final two-point marker to the South score, ending the game at 26-22.

Burick headed the scoring for Warren with Dowdell, Steele and Mayberry contributing in a last minute spurt.

Hartman and Rowney starred on offense for South.

SACHSEN TEAMS FIGHT TO THE CADETS AHEAD

Salem, Alliance Draw In Thriller Saturday; Play Extra Period

Salem and Alliance Sachsen, principals in a thrilling race for Penn-Ohio German league laurels last year, are again destined to fight it out for the championship this season.

Battle To 26-26 Tie
The two teams battled to a 23-23 deadlock in a thrilling encounter at the Memorial building Saturday night. An overtime session was played to settle the issue without result.

The lead wavered back and forth with Alliance holding a 14-9 edge at the half. Salem rallied and led, 13-14, at the three-quarter mark but the visitors tied it up in the final stanza.

Neither team was able to score in the three-minute overtime period.

"THE RAINBOW TRAIL," western drama, based on Zane Grey's novel of the same name, opened yesterday for a three day run at the Grand theater.

In "The Rainbow Trail" George O'Brien impersonates the part of a lone cowboy, who singlehandedly invades the stronghold of a band of desperadoes in his attempt to rescue three people from a hidden and impenetrable valley in which they have secured themselves years before.

The picture is said to contain some of the finest scenic shots and sound effects ever captured for the screen, filmed as it was in the most lonely and least frequented sections of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

Roscoe Ates, stuttering comedian, plays an important role.

Weird dance rituals to pagan gods, international intrigue, unbridled passions, romance and the certain doom of a firing squad. All these things go to make up the glamorous story of "MATA HARI," which was unveiled Sunday at the State theater as the auspicious co-starring debut of Greta Garbo and Ramon Novarro.

Lionel Barrymore, always to be relied on for fine performance, does splendid work as General Shubin.

The story of "Mata Hari" is based on the life of the notorious dancer whose intrigues as a spy during the World war resulted in her execution by a French firing squad. This famous woman was as well known for her love affairs as for her espionage maneuvers and it is on this aspect of her life that the plot of the picture is centered.

Garbo, of course, plays the dancer whole Novarro is seen as a young Russian flyer whom she betrays then grows to love him. Lewis Stone and Karen Marley play in supporting roles.

Laval Speeding Up Cabinet Planning

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 11.—A wave of critical reaction swept France today as a result of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's declaration that Germany is unable to pay her reparations. It served to speed up Premier Laval's plans for cabinet remodeling.

The reaction, most of it in the premier's favor, brought a suggestion of ways of retaliation against Germany, and new mention of such war-time matters as occupation of the Ruhr, treaties as "scraps of paper" and reflections on the German republic.

Premier Laval pitched into the cabinet negotiations, which some observers predicted would result in formation of a national government to present a united French front at the coming international conferences.

Man Who Saved 18 In Blaze Is Dead

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—A hero in the Collinwood school fire in which 172 children and three teachers lost their lives, Wallace W. Upton, 64, was to be buried here today. He died Friday.

The school burned March 4, 1908. Upton, one of the first rescuers to reach the structure, was credited with the rescue of 17 children and a teacher. Finally he fell exhausted. It was several weeks before he recovered from his injuries and relatives said he never recovered fully from the shock.

Armory Robberies Bring Extra Guard

(By Associated Press)

AKRON, O., Jan. 11.—Two robberies of national guard armories here and at Barberton, caused an extra guard to be detailed today to the central armory building.

Machine guns, ammunition and several hundred rifles and pistols are stored there. The guard was armed with gas grenades and other weapons.

Robbers obtained rifle ammunition, blankets and clothing from a cavalry troop armory here last night. They got 23 automatic pistols, three rifles and ammunition at the Barberton armory Friday night.

Where Women Fliers Died

Here is a closeup of the wrecked fuselage of the great white monoplane in which Mrs. Debbie Stanforth (left in inset), of Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, Mo., crashed to death on a mountainside near Newville, Pa. The women, prominent in society, were en route from St. Louis to New York and met disaster in the fog that blanketed the mountains. Both the fliers were accomplished pilots and were planning a flight from New York to Buenos Aires.

New Income Tax Basis Will Reach Funds Outside State

The following is another in the series of stories explaining Ohio's new taxation code enacted by the last legislature. These stories were prepared exclusively for the Associated Press by State Senator Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, chairman of the joint legislative taxation committee which prepared the code.

BY ROBERT A. TAFT

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 11.—The adoption of the income basis for taxing individual investments, described in the second article of this series, has several advantages from a tax standpoint. First, it enables the taxing officers, who have access to the federal income tax returns, to check the income against that shown on the federal returns. While this will not be identical, it will afford a very good check. Secondly, taxing on this basis, it is also possible to reach interests in trust funds held outside the state, which cannot be directly taxed under the constitution.

Would Be a Failure

A tax system which can be avoided by the simple expedient of establishing a New York trust would be a failure as far as scientific taxation is concerned. The income basis also affords a much more definite basis, and avoids difficulties in the valuation of securities other than those listed on the exchanges. Everyone is familiar with the uncertainty in the value of closely held securities, and of course the taxpayer would always give himself the benefit of the doubt, while there can be no question as to the income which he may have received from such securities during the past year.

The same reasons for using the income basis do not apply to deposits or intangibles used in business. The tax on deposits has been fixed at the flat rate of two dollars a thousand, but the individual is no longer required to return his deposits. These are all listed by the bank as of a day in November, determined after the event by the tax commission. In 1931 it was fixed at November 24. The bank has the right to charge the tax back against the depositor, but nearly all banks in the state of Ohio have announced they will absorb the tax, so that as far as the depositor is concerned, his deposits are tax free.

Bank stocks and deposits and stocks in Building and Loan associations are treated the same way, and are also tax free to the individual tax payer.

On Different Basis

Intangible property used in business, as in the business of brokers and dealers in securities, finance companies, domestic insurance companies, and the like, is treated on a somewhat different basis. These companies, who use intangible property in business and turn it over to make a profit, pay on the capital invested, regardless of what actual investments they may hold among their assets. While the rate is higher, they are in effect allowed to deduct their liabilities from the assets. The rate is fixed at five dollars a thousand.

The law also takes credits at three dollars a thousand, but confines the definition of credits to current accounts, receivable within the year. This is a business conception, out under the law apparently applies also to individuals who happen to hold non-interest bearing accounts of this character. Cash and money on hand are also taxed at three dollars a thousand.

The general rule is that all intangible property is taxed unless there is some special exemption and any such property which does not fall within the classes described is also taxed at three dollars a thousand.

(Tomorrow—Taxing tangible personal property).

HARRISBURG, Pa.—There are 12,567 members of school boards in Pennsylvania, according to reports to the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. All except the secretaries and treasurers serve without pay.

MARTIAL LAW RULES IN CUBA

Prosecutor's Wife Believed Fatally Wounded As Bombs Explode

(By Associated Press)

SANTIAGO, CUBA, Jan. 11.—Martial law was declared today after the explosion of five bombs, one of which probably fatally wounded the wife of Dr. Rafael Stenger, prosecuting attorney of the Oriente province audiencia court.

The bombs followed scattered firing as students and workmen held demonstrations on the third anniversary of the slaying in Mexico City of Julio Antonio Mella, Cuban Communist student.

The bomb which injured Senora Stenger was thrown against the prosecutor's home. Others struck the post office, a theater, and a section of Vista Alegre, a suburb.

The lid of censorship was immediately clamped down at Havana. Government officials said, however, that the situation was "very grave."

Police and soldiers succeeded in quelling the earlier troubles without casualties, but cavalry, mounted police and armored trucks patrolled the city.
